

MOVERS & SHAKERS

New Assateague seashore gets new superintendent

Hugh Hawthorne is the new superintendent of Assateague Island National Seashore in Maryland and Virginia.

Hawthorne

Hawthorne will begin his new assignment in June, National Park Service (NPS) Regional Director Gay Vietzke said in a release.

“Assateague Island National Seashore will benefit from Hugh’s experience in spearheading deferred maintenance projects vital to park infrastructure needs while balancing the park’s remarkable and sensitive resources,” said Vietzke, director of NPS Region 1.

“At his last park, he managed more than $2 million in projects over the last two years, with several more in the pipeline. His energy, focus and balance will be a strong asset for Assateague.”

“I feel honored and humbled by this appointment,” said Hawthorne. “I’m excited to work at a coastal park, especially one that is such an amazing and treasured place. I look forward to collaborating with staff, partners, visitors and stakeholders to safely maximize park access, especially during this challenging time.”

After working for the United States Naval Reserve and Navy, Hawthorne joined the National Park Service in 2000.

Before coming to Assateague Island National Seashore, he served as superintendent at two other parks: Gila Cliff Dwellings National Monument in New Mexico and, most recently, William Howard Taft National Historic Site in Ohio.

Over his career he has worked closely with and run joint operations with the U.S. Coast Guard, U.S. Forest Service and Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation. He has also worked closely with various Native American tribal groups and large non-governmental organizations.

Hawthorne holds a Bachelor of Science in history from the University of Idaho, where he also undertook graduate studies in geology.

Nanticoke hospital welcomes imaging, cardiology director

Peninsula Regional Health System announced Peter Rosen, BS, RCT, is the new director of Medical Imaging and Cardiology Services for Nanticoke Memorial Hospital.

Rosen

Rosen has been with Nanticoke for more than 26 years, previously serving as the Director of Cardiology Services and the Manager of the Cardiac Catheterization Lab.

During his tenure, Rosen has been a leader in the growth of cardiology services at Nanticoke. He was a part of the team that brought the first cardiac catheterization lab to Nanticoke in 1993 and has continued to grow the program which now includes two state-of-the-art labs and an interventional cardiology program.

In his expanded role, he assumes responsibility for all inpatient and outpatient radiology testing including services provided at both Nanticoke Memorial Hospital and the Nanticoke Health Pavilion in Seaford.

Mr. Rosen lives in Salisbury with his wife Helaine. He has two grown daughters, Michelle and Beth

Wor-Wic names new instructor of nursing

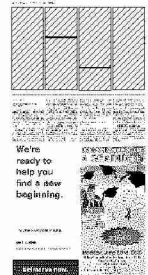

Wor-Wic Community College recently welcomed Chelsea Milligan of Salisbury as instructor of nursing.

Milligan

She earned her associate of science degree in nursing from Wor-Wic and both Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in nursing from Western Governors University in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Milligan has been working as a registered nurse since 2009 and has been teaching at Wor-Wic part time since 2018.

Salisbury University's Student Affairs division recently welcomed three new directors to lead its Counseling Center, Disability Resource Center and TRiO Student Support Services Program.

Dr. Lilian Odera is the new director of the Counseling Center. A licensed psychologist, bringing more than 12 years of experience, Odera has worked with diversity training; cultural competencies; social justice approaches; faith-based practices; and international, LGBTQ and marginalized student populations.

Odera holds a Ph.D. and master's in clinical psychology from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor and a bachelor's in psychology from Morgan State University.

Candace Henry has been named the director of Disability Resource Center, having served as the acting director and a coordinator in the center, bringing more than 15 years of experience to the position.

Henry holds a master's in counseling from Capella University and a bachelor's in psychology from Grambling State University.

Margaret Sebastian is the new director of the TRiO Student Support Services Program (TRiO SSS). TRiO SSS provides academic support and retention services to first-generation students, to students with financial needs, to military students and to students with disabilities.

Sebastian has more than 11 years of higher education experience, including work in TRiO, housing and residence life, and equity and compliance.

She has a bachelor's in history and leadership studies from Blackburn College, a master's in guidance and counseling from Northwest Missouri State University, and is nearing completion of her Ph.D. in higher education and student affairs leadership from University of Northern Colorado.