Cultural Council seeks members

To the Editor:

The Carlisle Cultural Council is a unique organization in Carlisle. We fund, promote and produce programs and events that cover the gamut of culture: theater, visual arts, music, humanities, STEM and more. We continue to grow as an important cultural resource for Carlisle, and we have exciting plans for the future.

We are especially looking for members with interests in the visual arts, as well as the humanities—but you do not need to be an artist or lecturer. You’ll help us evaluate the quality of applications we receive during the state-funded annual grant cycle, and also help us develop independent programs and networking relationships in the community.

We’re a town agency operating under the auspices of the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency. Members are appointed by the Select Board for three-year terms. The next term starts July 1.
